
EDUCATION

Duke University

Durham, NC. 2025-2027

Candidate, M.F.A. in Experimental and Documentary Arts

Cornell University

Ithaca, NY. 2021-2025

College of Arts and Sciences, Bowers College of Computing and Information Science

B.A., double major in Film and Information Science

Minors in Business and Anthropology

Summa Cum Laude, Dean's List all semesters

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Project Manager, Co-Instructor – Duke Medical School

Durham, NC; August 2026 – Present

- Serve as project manager and graduate co-instructor for Bass Connections project team course "Virtual Reality for Medical Trainees."
- Provide technical and creative VR instruction; collaborate with three MD candidate co-instructors on weekly course delivery and office hours.

Production Assistant Intern – Telluride Film Festival

Telluride, CO; August – September 2026

- Supported full-scale event production including venue construction, rigging, and staging.
- Volunteered during the festival providing logistical support.

Graduate Assistant – Rubenstein Arts Center, Duke University

Durham, NC; August 2025 – Present

- Provide operational and production support for major interdisciplinary arts venues at the Rubenstein Arts Center, serving as Manager on Duty for evening and weekend programs.
- Oversee building operations, event setup and breakdown, and coordination with staff employees, while supporting public events and contributing to arts center programming and student engagement initiatives.

Co-Founder & Creative Director – CoArt Lab

Suzhou, China; May 2025 – Present

- Co-founded CoArt Lab, a youth-led creative platform supporting emerging Chinese artists through interdisciplinary programming across art, film, design, technology, social impact, and cross-cultural dialogue;
- Conceptualized and organized large-scale creative events and forums (e.g. 48-hour film marathon, Creative Impact Under 30 initiative), engaging hundreds of young creators across the Yangtze Delta;
- Led creative direction, curation, branding, and partnerships, collaborating with artists, educators, nonprofits, and industry mentors across mainland China.

Student Entertainment Arts Assistant – Cornell Einaudi Center

Ithaca, NY; January – May 2023

- Produced, filmed, and edited a documentary film for the exhibition "Morning Dew" by Korean-Japanese artist Soni Kum at Cornell's Johnson Museum of Art, focusing on North Korean immigrants in Japan.
- Reached out to and interviewed the artist, as well as Cornell faculty and students, for the documentary.

Whispers of the Grid

2025, 10mins, Virtual Reality Documentary Short, Director & Editor

This documentary is part of the director's undergraduate thesis at Cornell University, a project that earned summa cum laude honors. It explores the social and environmental impacts of Bitcoin mining in rural Texas. Motivated by a desire to bring the lived experiences of residents in "Bitcoin towns" into dialogue with broader debates around emerging technologies, the project combines traditional documentary techniques with immersive media to create a more embodied, participatory form of storytelling. This project was informed by theories of sensory ethnography (Sarah Pink), eco-cinema (Scott MacDonald), and Michel Foucault's ideas on power and infrastructure, all of which shaped how the film addresses the entanglements of technology, environment, and community life. It seeks to foster nuanced dialogue about the promises and consequences of crypto-mining, highlighting how energy infrastructures reshape landscapes, economies, and identities in underrepresented regions.

Screener (documentary short): <https://youtu.be/sP-yDn6yQmY>

Screener (VR short): https://youtu.be/WsQp0SUO_CY

Synchrotron Symphony

2024, 6mins, Documentary Short, Director & Editor

This documentary presents Cornell's underground accelerator in a poetic tone, showing the beauty and vibrancy of its scientific machinery, cords, and structures. Underground scenes in the lab are juxtaposed with the rigorous, dynamic, and physical scenes of football training and games above ground at Schoellkopf Field. My aim is to showcase Wilson Lab from a different perspective, giving the audience a sensory experience, both visual and auditory, of the synchrotron underground and the football training above. Through this immersion in the underground world of steel, we are prompted to ask ourselves what we see in the future of science, discovering new meanings and perspectives in scientific research.

Screener: <https://youtu.be/G2zqpfptHk4>

Festivals: Winner, 2024 Cornell University Milstein Program "Art + Tech" competition ($500 award)

Finalist, 2024 Raw Science Film Festival

Official Selection, 2024 China International Conference of Science and Education Producers

Chronirvana

2023, 9mins, Experimental Short, Director, Cinematographer & Editor

A 20-year-old college student confronts her chronophobia—fear of time—leading her to examine complex perceptions of time and reality. Through a nonlinear portrayal of linearly progressing time, she questions the purpose of her existence and her own identity, contemplating recent changes in her life.

Screener: <https://youtu.be/8BEJDb4vIqM>

Morning Dew: The Experience

2023, 20mins, Documentary Short, Co-Director & Director of Photography

This documentary conveys the essence of a multimedia exhibit installed at the Herbert F. Johnson Museum of Art at Cornell University in the spring of 2023, focusing on the lives of Zainichi Koreans (ethnic Koreans resident in Japan). Titled "Morning Dew: the Stigma of Being Brainwashed," the exhibit is a collaboration between artists Soni Kum, Hiroki Yamamoto, Kazuya Takagawa, and Nobuaki Takekawa.

Screener: <https://youtu.be/RpZonxWo7f8?si=YdZgGcnXGU30vVvk>

The Murderess

2021, 8mins, Fiction Short, Director

Hannah falls in love with Casey. Hannah's classmate Ted warns her to conduct a background check on Casey and shows her evidence of Casey's troubled past relationships. Later, Casey confesses the fates of her previous boyfriends. To her shock, Hannah discovers a startling secret involving both Casey and Ted. This film questions whether blind trust still stands in our internet-dominated era.

Screener: <https://youtu.be/iTADNlaem5M>

The Dream Café

2021, 7mins, Documentary Short, Director, Producer, Cinematographer & Editor

In a special café in Shanghai that only hires young workers with mental disabilities, the life story of Yin Hao, a coffee maker with Down Syndrome, is documented. Despite his condition, Yin Hao always surprises people: he is very talented and always keeps an optimistic mind.

Screener: <https://youtu.be/I8oMcEBIzLU>

Festivals: Winner, 2021 Quill and Scroll Documentary Category (International and China domestic)

Winner, 2021 New Jersey Documentary Film Festival High School Student Film

Official Selection, 2021 Hellbender Student Film Festival

Official Selection, 2020 All American High School Film Festival

Official Selection, 2020 Arlington International Film Festival

FELLOWSHIPS & GRANTS

Duke Pisto Filmmaking Award

2026, total amount $1500

Duke Dean's Research Award

2025, total amount $1000

Cornell Einhorn Discovery Grant

2024-2025, total amount $1000

Cornell Undergraduate Research Program Fund

2024-2025, total amount $500

Cornell Performing & Media Arts Honors Research Fund

2024-2025, total amount $500

The Lynn S. Abel Research Fund

2022-2025, total amount $2000, awarded $500 each semester over the period

The Rural Humanities Fund, Mellon Foundation

2024, total amount $2000

The Einhorn Community Engagement Fund

2024, total amount $1500

Cornell Graduate and Professional School Fund

2024, total amount $500

Cornell in Sundance

2024, granted by Cornell's Department of Performing & Media Arts to attend the Sundance Film Festival

The 50th Telluride Film Festival Student Symposium

2023, selected by the Telluride Film Festival Student Symposium team and granted by Cornell's Lynn S. Abel Research Fund to attend the festival

Cornell Council for the Arts

2023, total amount $1000, for the production the documentary film Morning Dew: The Experience